Type Spaces: Typography in a Three-Dimensional Space

Type Spaces: Typography in a Three-Dimensional Space

This work explores the new meanings that become apparent in text when we can touch it or otherwise inhabit it - as image, form, and language converge. It turns out that we have fascinating encounters with typography as it enters three-dimensional space, interacting in ways that go beyond the boundaries of what the page or screen allows. 'Type Spaces' puts forward the best examples of these experiences by gathering examples of typographic hybrids in architecture, interiors, furniture, jewellery, and other objects.
